

Copy VHS to Computer Video File (.mpg format)

1. Turn on the monitor (S1) and converter (M1), then wait 20 seconds.
2. Prepare the VHS tape.

- a. Insert the VHS tape.
- b. (Optional; this step is to ensure that the VHS tape is functional)

Press , then wait until the tape reach its end point; Press , then wait until the tape reach its start point; Press .

- c. Press  at the point you wish to start recording.

3. Prepare the computer.

- a. Log into the computer (S2).

- b. Double-click the icon with the computer mouse, and the 'Roxio Easy VHS to DVD 3 Plus' interface will pop up.

- c. Click , so that the content from the monitor (S1) will also show up in the computer (S2).

4. Copy the VHS tape to a computer video file.

- a. Press  on the remote, then immediately click  on the 'Roxio Easy VHS to DVD 3 Plus' interface.

- b. Now the progress information  should appear on the 'Roxio Easy VHS to DVD 3 Plus' interface. This means the software is extracting the VHS tape to a computer file.

- c. Press  on the 'Roxio Easy VHS to DVD 3 Plus' interface, when you decide to stop the extracting.

- d. Click  on the computer (S2) desktop, and the extracted video will appear in this folder as a '.mpg' file. Now, you can copy this video to your own USB drive.

5. Remove the VHS tape.

- a. Press  on the remote.

- b. Press  to eject the VHS slot, then remove the VHS tape.

6. Turn off the converter (M1) & monitor (S1), and quit the computer (S2).